

The Wait Is Finally Over for Thais – Contactless Payment Terminals Arrive

The wait is finally over. Thai people are bored of long queues and signing and throwing away unnecessary receipts. Payment and checkout has become fast and convenient now that our team in Thailand and its partner bank Krungsri are bringing the first contactless payment terminals to Thailand.

The team is excited to become the latest market in Asia to offer consumers contactless payment terminals allowing consumers to make fast, convenient and secure payments by using contactless-enabled cards, phones or devices.

And with the number of mobile phones exceeding the number of people in Thailand, this is another MasterCard innovation that is targeted specifically for the market, and sure to see great success.

In addition, the partnership will see the Thailand team and Krungsri welcome 2015 by expanding contactless payment services to more Thai merchants.

Be prepared to see our acceptance terminals all over the country the next time you visit Thailand.
